Verizon cloud contacts backup failed

Accessibility Resource Center Skip to Main Content Verizon Cloud is a storage system offered by Verizon to back up and sync your contacts, photos, videos, etc. Some users reported that when they were using Verizon Cloud to back up the data, they encountered the following issues:Verizon Cloud continues to fail; The application continues to block; Cloud Contacts backup failed; Verizon Cloud Backup stops at a certain point and will not continue; If you are experiencing similar problems, this post will be useful to you. Let's see how fixing Verizon Cloud backup doesn't work. Turn off the Wi-Fi/Verizon Cloud app and back up data with Wi-Fi by default. If you use Wi-Fi to back up your data, try turning it off and switching to your mobile data. Tap the app and go to Settings > uncheck Wi-Fi only.Then turn on your mobile data to back up your data. Clear Cache and Data from Verizon Cloud Applr to Settings on your phone > Apps > Application Manager.Find Verizon Cloud and choose Clear Cache/Data. This helps clean up damaged Verizon Cloud data to fix the backup issue not working. Turn on Contacts for Backup If you can back everything up to your phone except Contacts, open Verizon Cloud and go to Settings > What to backup. Open Your Backup Contents on DesktopWhen the application is stuck in the backup, you can log in to your account on the official Verizon Cloud website. Check if the data has been successfully backed up to your account and open it on your desktop. Restart the PhoneSome times restarting the device can solve many problems. If the backup continues to fail or gets stuck during the backup, try restarting your phone and start backing up again. Updating or reinstalling Verizon CloudThe update of an application will fix some errors in the program. Therefore, when you open the app and close automatically, go to the app store and see if it has been updated. If not, uninstall it and reinstall it. Back up your content to computer If you are scratching your head over the Verizon cloud no backup problem, but you need to backup them in desperately or the files are so important and you are afraid of losing them, try to transfer them to the computer. Some users may complain: It is slow to transfer all files manually. Don't worry, there are many data transfer programs on the market. FonePaw DoTrans, for example, is a good transfer that helps you move files from your phone to your computer. The steps are simple:Step 1 Download and enable FonePaw DoTrans.DownloadStep 2 Connect your phone to your computer. Step 3 When the phone is detected, choose the data type on the left side and export the files to the PC. Transfer data in one click, saving your time and effort. Back up your data to other cloud storageDo you dissatisfied with the methods mentioned above? Well, here's the last resort. For Apple users, you can switch to iCloud to back up important files. To avoid losing important content on your iPhone, it's important to know how to back up your devices iTunes or iCloud.For Android users, how to back up and restore Android data? Google Drive is a good choice. There is also a special backup program for Android: FonePaw Android Data Backup and Restore.In all, there are plenty of methods to solve Verizon Cloud not photo backup, Verizon Cloud Contact Backup failed or the like. But if you are unable to fix The Verizon Cloud problem does not work after testing the method, stop jammed into it and look for other backup tools like FonePaw DoTrans or switch to iCloud, Google Drive and so on. It is mainly used for certain basic phones and older smartphones and tablets. Most devices use Verizon Cloud instead of Backup Assistant. Verizon Cloud can back up your contacts as well as their images, videos and more. However, certain basic phones and older devices do not support Verizon Cloud, so you can use Backup Assistant on these devices to save and transfer your contacts. Learn how to verify whether your device supports Backup Assistant or Verizon Cloud. Backup Assistant is already installed on most supported devices. If you don't see it on your basic phone, check out our steps on how to download Backup Assistant to a basic phone. If you don't see it on your smartphone, search for Backup Assistant in your device's app store and follow the on-screen prompts to download it. If you don't see the Backup Wizard app in the app store, your device may not be supported. Backup Assistant is included with your Verizon wireless service. There are no subscription fees.* *Standard data charges may apply for downloading and using Backup Assistant, according to your data plan. No, your Backup Assistant account can only be associated with one device at a time. Your device actually has two numbers that it is associated with: the mobile internal number (MIN) and the mobile directory number (MDN). Backup Assistant should only use the MDN for the service to function properly. In most cases, these numbers are identical, but if they differ, you should select No when Backup Assistant shows you the wrong number during the number verification process. A text message will be sent to your device to identify the correct number. When the correct number is displayed, select Yes to proceed with the installation. Standard text messaging fees apply according to your messaging. On the backup assistant home screen on your device, there are the following numbers: Pending - This red number is the total number of changes you've made to your contacts since the last backup. If the number is 0, your contacts are fully backed up. Backup: This green number is the total number of contacts that are securely copied to your account.
